

Wanted

Prometheus a.k.a. The Fire Thief

Associated

Symbol / Weapon

Prometheus was an immortal Titan.

Where he may be found: Was chained to a cliff in the Caucasus Mountains for eons as punishment for stealing fire from the gods. He was last seen in England, 1858. Is currently "at large."

Known Associates: Prometheus was last seen escaping after Hercules released him from his chains. It is reported that he was seen in England, 1858, in the company of a con man and two young people. There may be Furies nearby.

Other identifying characteristics or interesting facts about Prometheus:

Prometheus may sometimes be seen with a pair of wings, which he frequently hides.

He is blamed for creating the first man.

He may have chain marks on his wrists.

Follow his journey in The Fire Thief, by Terry Deary